From Tunbridge Wells Borough Council

Dear Colleague,

We wanted to tell you about a new website that maybe a useful resource for the communities you are supporting. With social distancing measures currently in place many people are experiencing social isolation and loneliness. To help combat this, and the impact on people's mental health and wellbeing, Tunbridge Wells Borough Council has launched a new community website 'Tunbridge Wells Social'.

The site is a collaborative project between the Council's Culture, Health and Housing teams, the Community Safety Unit and partners including Town & Country Housing, St Giles Trust, KCC's Early Help, Salus, DAVSS and Age UK. The site is free to use. More content will be added over the coming weeks and months, and the site will continue to be available as a community resource after lockdown measures are lifted.

Tunbridge Wells Social offers something for everyone. It's a one stop shop of information and support as well as entertainment and fun. There is an interactive weekly podcast 'Tunbridge Wells Talks' airing lighthearted views about what's going on, as well as updated and relevant content to help connect people.

Stars from the stage and small screen with local connections have given their support to the initiative. Comedian, writer and presenter Jo Brand recalls her school days in Tunbridge Wells; local actor Philip Martin Brown (Waterloo Road and Coronation Street) reads a favourite poem; Olympic medallist Jayne Torvill shares a message of support, commending how the local community has come together, and TV presenter Nick Knowles, who went to school in Tunbridge Wells, is also supporting the project sharing funny poems and a message.

Please do share this email and the website with your contacts and networks, families and friends. It would be also helpful to note that the Council has set up a local helpline to support people who need urgent help, supplies or medication as a result of the coronavirus. The number is 01892 554497.

Keep well and stay safe

Best wishes

The Social Isolation Group
Tunbridge Wells Borough Council.
